Hyams Will Be in Good Shape for Meeting with Juck McAuliffe, Dec. 13— Littlewood Will Surely Enter the Next Race—Ed Plummer Has Pretty Near Adopted Little Smith.

Old Sport Campana was around town yesterday in high glee, declaring that Littlewood was going to take him back to England with nim about Dec. 15. Old Sport is over fiftynight years old, having been born in Petersourg. Va., Sept. 17, 1830. He now lives in Bridgeport, Conn., with his wife, Jennie, whom he declares to be the "prettiest girl in America," and he peddles oranges, lemons and bananas for a living. On the calf of his left leg is tatooed the name, "Jennie Dalton Campana," in red ink, with blue adorning flourishes. Sport made $61 last week, and will carry $56 of this to his home. He says he will "set myself up in business for myself and Jennie," the only thing acy being a clam cart. Sport boasts of never having enten meat. "Soup, oysters and clams is my bill of fare," says he. I could only have had three good meals a day I would have best 'em all. I beat the e-eater a lap, any way.

Jake Hyans, the English light-weight, said yesterday that his fight with Jack McAuliffe will take place about Dec. 13. Jake's left hand was burned in Madison Square Garden, while he was attending to Littlewood, but he thinks it will be all right in a few days. He is in good condition, and will fight at 133 pounds.

Manager William O'Brien is inclined to favor London for the next six days' go-asyou-please race. He said yesterday: 'London, if worked properly, would yield a pile of money in a race. There is money enough over there, and all we will have to do will be to get the public interested in a race. If we arrange a go over there it will probably not interfere with another one here."

George Littlewood, the champion six-day goer, does not care much wnether the next race is in this city or London. He will enter any way, and after his cordial treatment here likes America as well as any place. He is naturally good-natured and a pleasant fellow to converse with. He minded his own affairs during the recent race, and is friendly to all the American boys who were entered against him.

Ed Plummer has become very much interested in little Charlie Smith, the English lad who won so many friends in the race at the Garden. He has taken Charlie into his own family, and is fast becoming attached to the bright little fellow. Charlie took in about $126 at the Garden. He had never known what it is to trot or run, and his new-found friends here have had much sport teaching him an easy gait. He has made fast time by his natural step, a fair heel-and-toe walk, and Mr. Plummer thinks he can walk a mile in seven and one-half minutes. This is fast for a sixteen-year-old.

Half the walking match receipts, or some-thing over $9,000, was yesterday divided as follows among the ten contestants who cov-ered 525 miles and over: Littlewood, $3,704.04: Herty. $1,666.98; Moore, $1,-111.32: Cartwright, $833.49: Noremac, $555.66; Hart. $463.05: Howarth, $370.44; Connor, $277.83: Golden, $185.22: Mason, $92.66. The managers get all the rest. Mr. O'Brien thinks it will be about $12,000.

A Sure Clae.

(Prom Peck's Sun.)
Up to the present writing seven horrible murers have taken place in Whitechapel. The last unfortunate, as were her sister victims, was a disreputable woman, and was murdered in her lodgings. The fact that when last heard she was singing "Sweet Violets" may throw some light on the matter, and perhaps if the detectives will go about whistling that tune they may discover the murderer.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.

"The Still Alarm" packed the Grand Opera-House last night and sent the large andience home well pleased. The Harlemites last night were treated to "Uncle Tom's Cabin," arranged by Charles Alfred Byrne and Arthur Wallack. Friends of young Hearst in Boston says he was very intimate with a young woman while at college, who did not belong to the upper ten, and many of them have a suspicion that it was she he married, and thus account for the fact that the affair was kept secret.

While in New York Hearst stopped at the Hoffman Ilouse. He left there Nov. 23, and, it is said, ordered his baggage to be taken to the Freuch line pier. The following day La Bourgogne sailed, but the name of W. R. Hearst could not be found on her registry list; neither was it on that of La Champagne, which left several days prior to La Bourgogne.

It is a foregone conclusion that the report will be adverse to O'Brien and the leaders of his machine in the Eighth Assembly District, and will favor a reorganization.

Despite this fact ex-Assemblyman John E. Brodsky and George J. Kraus propose to fight it out before the committee and make some rather hard comparisons between the vote in the Eighth District and that in the silk-stockinged Twenty-first.

President French, of the Police Board, said this morning that O'Brien is not a member of the General Committee and therefore cannot be turned out.

He knew of no probable action to be taken to-day by the Board to remove O'Brien from his position as Chief of the Burean of Elections. He thought the deadlock could not be broken just

The latest scheme of Wizard Edison, of Menle Park, is published in full in this morning's Talking of Miss Harrison it may be as well to say that she is not yet married to Mr. Carson, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. The facts are said to be these: Mr. Carson's desire is to marry Miss Harrison, but he cannot do so without the decree of divorce for which he has applied, and which for legal reasons has not yet been secured. It is said that there is every probability that it will be a very long time before Carson is thus made happy, inasmuch as there are no reasons why the divorce should be granted. Rumor has it that since Mrs. Carson has heard of her husband's intention to wed Miss Harrison she is not so anxious to let him seek a divorce. In the mean time the actress is still a member of the Madison Square Company. It is nothing more or less than to furnish talking newspaper by means of his phonograph. Subscribers, to whom are rented machines, can have left at their door every morning the waxy tablets, known as phonograms, which can be wrapped about a cylinder and used in the plenograph.

On these tablets will be impressed from the clear voice of a good talker a condensation of the best news of the day, which the subscribers can have talked back at them as they sit at their breakfast tables.

still highly popular, as was made evident by the appreciative audience that assembled to welcome it last night.

Brooklyn Amusements. COL. SINN'S PARK THEATRE.

"The Fugitive," a melodrama by Tom Craven, was produced for the first time in this city at the Windsor Theatre last night. It was the kind of play to appeal to the gallery, with its dramatic situations, its "catch appliance," speeches and its long-suffering hero and heroine. There is nothing original about it, and no particular excuse why it should have-been written. There are many better melodramas being performed at the present time. "The Fugilian was to melodrama lovers. The scenic effects are excellent and the company good.

Third Avenue Theatre. Clara Morris, last evening, appeared at Col. Sinn's Park Theatre in Belots emotional play of of "L' Article 47." The actress's impersonation of the heroine was a perfect piece of work. The supporting company included such excellent actors as Frederic de Belleville, formally with Mrs. Langtry, J. B. Everham, Walter Kelly, F. H. Tyler, Julius Kahn, M. W. Rawley, John C. Elliott, Mattie Eagle, Mrs. Octavia Allen and Kate Massi, During the week Miss Morris will appear in "The New Magdalen," and her latest play of "Renec de Moray."

THE AMPRION ACADEMY. "Harbor Lights" was played last evening at the Amphion Academy to a large audience and gave general satisfaction. The principal roles are well sustained by Charles B. Welles, Ogden Stevens, A. Z. Chipman, Carl Smith, Julia Stewart, Genevieve Heaman, Georgie Dickson, Florence Roberts, Luzzie Conway and Jennic Lane. The play is finely mounted. Two matinces will be given and next week "A Hole in the Ground" will take the boards. "The Golden Giant Mine," Clay M. Greene's clever play, was produced at the Third Avenue Theatre last night, with Mrs. McKee Rankin in her original role of Bessie Fairfax, known as "Bet." There was a large audience and the play went with admirable smoothness. It was prettily staged and the audience was distinctly appreciative. "Hazel Kirke" was produced at the Thalia Theatre last night, with C. W. Couldock as Dunstan Kirke. Mr. Couldock's performance was as artistic as ever. He was well supported by Miss Lillian Billings, Raymond Holmes, Charles Kidder and James Tavlor.

ORAND OPERA-HOUSE.

"The Ivy Leaf," a picturesque Irish drama in five acts was the attraction at the Brooklyn Grand Opers-House last night. The play is replete with catching songs and dances, and was frequently interrupted by bursts of applause. Mr. Smith O'Brien as Murty Korrigan made a "true-hearted Irish lad." He has a sweet voice, and his rendition of the patriotic song, "Old Ireland's Free Again," was a great feature of the entertainment. Miss Lettic Allen, who appeared as Colicen Bawn, is a pretty brunette, and Miss Nellie Rosebud as Maureen Deelish made a fresh Irish maiden. F. D. Montague as Gerald Daly was an attractive young officer.

JACOBS'S BROOVLYN THEATRE.

At Jacobs's Brooklyn Theatre'. The Shadows of a Great City," a pleasing and attractive melodrama, was presented last might to a crowded house. The scenery was fine and many of the effects startling. The company is a strong one, introducing among other excellent artists Annie Ward Tiffany, Rose Tiffany, George R. Edeson, W. W. Allen, John Marshall, W. H. Burton and others. Three matinees will be given.

THE LYCEUM THEATRE.

"O-tell-O" was a great feature at Dockstader's last night, and a large andience waxed extremely merry at Lew Dockstader's touching impersonation of Desdemons. Shakespeare ought to have been there. The farce called "Littlewood, the Walker," was well received; so was Mr. Jose's rendering of the song published in The WORLD, "With All Her Faults I Love Her Still." "Rit, the Arkansas Traveller," was greeted with a crowded house at Jacobs's Lyceum Theatre last night. Chanfrau enacting his title role, the has become so familiar with the part that he looks and acts like his father, who introduced it to the public sixteen years ago. The familia scenes of the bar on a Missippi River steamer, cabin life in Kansas, the game of poker, and the trillingly natural duci with knives were roundly applauded. The supporting company is good he characters of the Judge and the Major being specially so. There was an interesting variety performance at Koster & Bial's last night. Miss Lillie May, Miss Nellie Franklyn, a soubrette; J. H. Haslam. "England's champion song and dancartist," and the musical team. Fields and Hanson, were well received. There was an Arabian divertissement, in which some very pretty girls figured.

PROCTOR'S BROOKLYN THEATRE.

"Zo Zo, the Magic Queen," an olla podrida of mirth, music and dancing, was presented last evening at Proctor's Brooklyn Theatre, and the louse was crowded. The company comprise several well-known specialists who are stars if their line. It is headed by Montgomery Walker, who scores a great hit as Washington Knowall. Miss Lucillo Reinsen is a voritable Zo Zo, and her vocalization is excellent. Miss Vera Russel is equally worthy of commendable notice. The scenery is very effective, especially the transformation scene.

At Zipp's Casino the week opened auspiciously the attendance last evening being large and en thusiastic. Minnie Schult, as usual, is the prime favorite, and will add to her reportoin soon a topical song in which she will personate a fashionably attired swell. The artists for the present week, all of whom were received favor-ably last night, are Adele Martmette, C. H. Brooks, Chris Btevens, E. Leroy Grove, Ray-mond Wilson, William Greenot, Frederick Dierks, Martin Schlig and Prof. Kirchner's Orchestra.

HOLMES'S MUSEUM.

Manager John Holmes, of Holmes's Standard Museum, was in a smiling mood yesterday afternoon, as he looked over the large assemblage of Brooklynites gathered in response to his invitation to be present at a private reception tendered to Lucia Zarate, a wonderful little woman, twenty-six years of age, who tips the beam at four and three-quarter pounds. The medical fraternity turned out in force, prominent among them being Drs. A. E. Peck, Jerome Walker, Geo, Everson, Wm. T. Hudson, Henry Anderson, Geo, K. Smith, Wm. Meade, Frank Westwood and Benjamin M. Briggs, Others in the assemblage were Hugh McLaughlin, Henry Philip, P. McNulty, Chas. Gonid, Frank A. Robhus and es-Mayor R. S. Holmes, of Ellsworth, Me. The entire assemblage later saw Horace Lewis in "Monte Cristo," which is the attraction in the theatre. LEE AVENUE ACADEMY.

Miss Annie Pixley presented her latest success,
"The Deacon's Daughter," at the Lee Avenue Academy of Music last evening. The story of the play, which tells of a country girl's expericuce in the city, is interesting, and there are introduced several catchy new songs by Miss Pixlep. The audience last evening was enthusiastic, and a full house warmly testified its approval of the play and the people connected with it.

petuously. "I will not be the one to drive you from here. I will go myself."

"It is not necessary for you to go yet," he aid, quietly. "I shall go any way, so, Mis-"It is not necessary for you to go version, quietly. "I shall go any way, so, Miss Johnson, pray remain."

Her pride was battling for victory. She half turned to go, but in a moment she saw the right, and whatever might be the result she would tell him.

"I have been very foolish," she cried, reaching out both hands to him and bursting into a massion of tears.

MRS. EVANS'S PLAN.

T was a warm day in Summer and Chauncey Elismere, reclining on country house Chauncey was spending the "Can't you postpone it till the weather gets cooler?" was the drowsy reply. "No, I must tell you now," and sinking into a seat beside him, Mrs. Evans took his hand and said, coaxingly: "Brother become prejudiced in advance, and I will place high hopes on May's beautiful eyes and bewitching manner."

The promise was given and Clara left Chauncey to his own reflections, which, as regarded her little plan, did not occupy his mind long, for he had an idea that it was one chance in ten thousand that it would ever be consummated.

Ellamere, reclining on a sofa in the library, looked as luxuriantly lazy as it was possible to be.

"Chauncey, you are not sleeping, so open your eyes, Laziness, as I have something of importance to tell you," cried the merry voice of his sister, Mrs. Clars Evans, a bride of a year, at whose

"Mr. Ellsmere," she said to him one day,
"do you know that some people call me a firt?" What a terrible accusation, "laughed he.

"What a terrible accusation," laughed he.
"Now, I am going to confide in you, and yet I searcely know what to say. You are Clara's brother, and I am Clara's stater—almost, so I want to be considered as your sister, and I mean to be as intimate with you and tease you as much as if you were."
Chauncey could not prevent a cloud from coming over his face. Was she telling him delicately that he need only to regard her as a sister? For though he was loath to believe delicately that he need only to regard her as a sister? For, though he was loath to believe it, yet he was gradually awakening to the fact that he loved this beautiful girl, who, according to her own statement, regarded him only is a brother.

The brown eyes fell before his, and the dewy lips began to quiver.

Believe, me, Mr. Ellsmere, she said, in a very low voice, "I had no idea of this. I thought that we understood each other—that we had made a compact to be brother and sister. Mr. Ellsmere, I like you, very much, but—I do not love you." The last words were spoken falteringly.

arrival, during which time she and Chaune, had been constantly in each other's society.

They were standing at the library window one evening when May abruptly announced her intention of taking her departure two weeks from that night.

"I am very sorry," Chauncey said slowly, and then as his eyes met here she saw in them something that drove the blood from her checks. She saw love, the whole love of a man's heart looking out of his eyes, and he knew that she understood him.

"Miss Johnson—May!" he cried, passionally. The brown eyes fell before his, and the dewy in began to guiver.

The horwer eyes fell before his, and the dewy inys began to guiver.

"Believo, mc, Mr. Ellsmere, she said, in the hall.

"Believo, mc, Mr. Ellsmere, she said, in the hall.

"To-day, and to Italy, he save,."

When—where?" said May, paling.

"To-day, and to Italy, he save,."

When—where?" said May, paling.

"To-day, and to Italy, he save,."

When—where?" said May, paling.

"To-day, and to Italy, he save,."

Italy you, very much, where a he knew Chauncey was. Puching open the door she walked straight up to him.

"You shall not go away," she cried, im"You shall not go away," she cried, im"You shall not go away," she cried, im-reaching out both hands to him and bursting into a passion of tears.

He understood her at last, and taking her hands, drew her to him.

"Go on," he said gently.

"Oh. Chauncey, I lave you with all my heart!" she said passionately.

He clasped her in his arms and kissed away her tears,

It is, perhaps, unnecessary to sinte that Mrs. Clara was delighted at the turn affairs jud taken, and shortly after there was a wadding.
